

Linda Pittelli
EVENTFUL DESIGNING

Linda Pittelli created and designed her own exquisite wedding in 2002. Set in one of the most romantic spots in Italy, the occasion was so blissfully special that Linda knew from that day forward that she had to take her natural designing talents, as well as her film production experience, and channel those attributes into creating exceptionally special weddings for other couples.

Committed and dedicated to her profession as a Wedding Designer, Linda says, "When creating a wedding, you only get one take, so I utilize what I learned in film: you leave nothing to chance with meticulous pre-production preparation. With that firmly in place, I then have the wonderful opportunity to create something fantastical and magical. It's so rewarding to have the latitude to bring to life all my dream weddings through my clients. It's especially fulfilling to watch the faces of the bride, groom and guests when they enter a room that I have created especially for them."

Eventful Designing offers couples a fully-equipped Designer in Linda who does far more than merely coordinate weddings. She's involved in every single aspect of the designing details as she commands the entire day's production. Furthermore, she brings together the best vendors in multiple cities world-wide who are renowned for their professionalism. Linda says reassuringly, "The best weddings are stress-free. The couple and everyone attending should have this beautiful day while I take care of business. My job is to win their trust completely so that I can truly interpret their vision of a dream wedding and produce it. My background has really prepared me to work under pressure; to respond to the moment, and never to panic."

Whether it's a wedding for 450 people at Mar a Lago, Palm Beach (in which Linda transformed the famed Donald Trump Estate to beautiful heights), or a small, intimate occasion, Linda creates these visions that often bring the family to tears of joy. She says, "I love transforming spaces and making a silk purse out of a sow's ear. It completely excites me. I try to incorporate something unique in almost every wedding. I've turned tiny villages in Italy into intimate dinner receptions, surrounded by strings, opera and fireworks; vineyards into romantic candle-lit dinners; and swimming pools into cocktails clubs with rainfalls of lights. I take pride in never doing the same wedding twice."

Linda's inspiration is multi-faceted. She says, "Right now I'm creating Paris at a Four Seasons because it was where the groom proposed to his bride-to-be. It is always such a thrill to see dreams become visions and visions come to life." The quality of the experience Linda creates is evident in the friendships she makes. Her home is filled with couples who come to dinner to relive the most memorable day of their lives. It's a level of intimacy that Linda treasures, and it leads to her best piece of advice to prospective couples: Make sure the person you hire to design your wedding is someone you really like and trust....not only with your finances, but most importantly with your dream."
